

ABSTRACT

A method and apparatus for managing memory access requests have been disclosed. One embodiment of the method includes dynamically modifying attributes of each of a number of requests to access one or more memory devices and arbitrating among the requests to select a request to send to the memory devices in a time slot based on the attributes. Other embodiments are described and claimed.